Dear Mr. Labastida, Dear Mr. Wigand,

Thank you, Mr. Labastida, for your reply.

I'm sorry, but given some details you've got from me about practices of the CRG as of an employer and scientific institution, your reply makes me think that your signed grant agreement with CRG and implementation of the funded project may comprise loyalty to corruption, lack of integrity, ethic and responsibility.

Is it somehow related to the fact that Luis Serrano's (CRG's director) wife is a ERC member?

I think that this conflict of interest and other so nicely ignored details from my experience, as long as obviously there is no good will for investigation, — must be reported as broad as only possible.

With regrets, —
Catherine

Dear Ms. Kirsanova,

We are sorry to hear about the situation with your former employer, however the ERC does not have the competence to intervene in such matters.

Please note that the ERC may interact with the beneficiaries only within the framework of the signed grant agreement and exclusively concerning the implementation of the funded project.

We hope that this answer clarifies the scope of the ERC's competencies.

With kind regards,

Jose

- Message: Hello, I do not hold much expectations, but I'd be grateful for your reaction as corresponding EU/Spanish bodies are completely silent on this case: <https://twitter.com/JWapatoo/status/828552099696955392> this is all about this: <https://goo.gl/mxSRFv> Looks like they are free whatever they want, hoping that a person's resources would exhaust. I'll be grateful for the reply with contact phone. Thanks.
